NEARING THE END.

Reports From European Centres Give Little Hope for the Czar's Recovery.

An Edict to be Issued Appointing a Regency With Czarewitch at the Head.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 19.—Advices from Livadia to-day regarding the czar's condition are very disquieting. There are crowds around the official buildings and people cross themselves as they read the bulletins.

Paris, Oct. 19.—Political and other circles are in a state of suspense in consequence of the unfavorable reports about the czar. La Lanterne says Grand Duke Vladimir, the czar's eldest brother, has informed President Casimir Perier that Russia's friendship for France will not be changed in the event of the death of the czar.

London, Oct. 19.—Dispatches to the Russian embassy states the czar's condition is extremely critical.

Berlin, Oct. 19.—All the newspapers express uneasiness at the consequences which may follow the death of the czar and the Ameer of Afghanistan. The stock exchange opened flat, but recovered slightly later.

Paris, Oct. 19.—Prayers were offered in the Russian church to-day for the recovery of the czar. President Perrier and Premier Dupuy were present.

Simla, Oct. 19.—Advices from Cabul say the conditions of the Ameer have improved.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 19.—It is reported that an edict will be issued on Monday appointing a regency, with the czarewitch at its head. Newspapers say in the event of England resorting to military intervention in Afghanistan, Russia will have to take similar action.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 18.—This city has not been so shaken with anxiety for years. The official journal, containing the latest bulletin, sent from Livadia at 11 o'clock this evening, was posted at the street corners throughout the city before midnight. It was read with intense interest by anxious crowds. The text is: "The czar's condition has changed for the worse. His general debility and weakness of the heart art increasing."

The grand dukes Sergius and Paul, the czar's brothers, started for Livadia to-night. The Grand Duke of Hesse Darmstadt and the Grand Duchess Sergius, his sister, were officially notified by wire at Darmstadt yesterday of the sudden grave change in the czar's condition, and started for St. Petersburg immediately. Consternation was caused here by the news from Livadia and the feeling is general that the czar's death may be expected at any time. Great anxiety is expressed regarding the consequences of the czar's death.

Father Ivan, of Cronstadt, who is celebrated and revered throughout Russia for the supposed efficacy of his prayers at the bedside of the sick, has started for Livadia.

Berlin, Oct. 18.—The Koelnisching Zeitung's correspondent in St. Petersburg has sent this dispatch: "The czar appears to be nearing the end. All the members of the imperial family are journeying to Livadia, where it is reported Princess Alix of Hesse will be received formally into the church and married quietly to the czarewitch before November 20."

London, Oct. 18.—The St. Petersburg correspondent to the Times says: "It is impossible to longer ignore the persistent reports from reputable sources that the czar has cancer of the kidneys. The Princess Alix will be met in Warsaw by the Russian imperial family and will proceed with them to the czar's bedside."

The convention voted in favor of woman suffrage as a powerful means for the overthrow of the liquor traffic.

Hamilton, Oct. 19.—As a test case the Lancefield public library has brought suit against Frederick Warne & Co., of London, England, and the Anglo-Canadian Music Publishers' association, Toronto, for alleged violation of the copyright act in printing in England and sending over for sale Canadian copyright publications. Lancefield holds they must be printed in Canada in order to enjoy copyright protection.

Friends of the latter are sure of his election by 400 majority.

MERCIER'S WONDERFUL VITALITY.

The E-Premier Rises From Bed and Dresses Without Assistance.

MASSING THEIR TROOPS.

China and Japan Evidently Preparing for Another Big Battle on Land.

Japanese Warships Cruising in the Vicinity of the Shanghai Promontory.

London, Oct. 19.—Tientsin dispatches say the Chinese fleet at Port Arthur was ordered to sea yesterday. The Japanese army is expected to cross the Yalu near Kwi Hin Chi, where the Chinese troops are encamped. A Norwegian steamer was overhauled and searched off Shan Sung promontory by a Japanese cruiser.

London, Oct. 19.—A Shanghai dispatch reaffirms the statement that a small uprising has taken place at Kulo Hwei, in which two officials were killed. The same dispatch says the peculation of Sheng, the Tatai of Tien Tsing, has been well known throughout China, but certain persons in exalted positions have endeavored to suppress all mention of his irregularities.

A Tokio dispatch says a special session of the Japanese parliament, to consider war measures, was opened at Hiroshima yesterday by the emperor in person. In his speech the emperor urged that the military measures presented should be disposed of without delay. He expressed regret that through the obstinacy of China peace had been disturbed, adding, "But war having commenced we cannot cease operations until our object shall be gained." A bill was introduced asking for one hundred and fifty million dollars for war expenses. Another bill calls for raising an internal loan of one hundred millions. A resolution will be submitted calling for rapidly pushing forward the work upon ships now in course of construction. In their reply to the emperors speech the presidents of the two emperor's speech the presidents of the two jesty rightly considers China an enemy to civilization, and we comply with the imperial desire to destroy the barbarous obstinacy of that race."

Shanghai dispatches say five hundred troops will accompany the viceroy of Hu Kwong to Pekin. Steamers arriving at Shanghai report eight Japanese warships cruising to the southeast of the Shantung promontory. A letter from Tientsin reports that three thousand troops have arrived there from different provinces. It is expected by the end of the month a hundred thousand troops will have arrived. Forty-eight thousand cavalry from different provinces is expected at Shin Kung Kirn. The first instalment of German rifles has arrived at Tientsin.

CURRAN BRIDGE SCANDAL.

How the Government Undertakes to "Punish" the Boodlers.

Ottawa, Oct. 19.—Evidently Ouimet has got ahead of Haggart in the St. Louis case. Haggart last session declared that he would prosecute and bring to justice those who robbed the department in connection with the Curran bridge matter. Ouimet took issue with him, St. Louis being a cousin of his. Haggart threw the case at the premier and asked him to do as he pleased, so that the onus might be transferred from him personally to the shoulders of the government. The result has been that the criminal action has been given up and another civil suit started. Some time ago St. Louis took suit against the government for $64,000 and the government made a counter claim against St. Louis. Both actions were dismissed. Still the government must try and make some show, and they go through the farce of starting another civil suit, which will, as the last one, amount to nothing. The sum sued for this time is $145,880, which St. Louis is supposed to have taken in the way of illegitimate profits on his contract for the supply of labor for the bridge. This was only a portion of the stealing, and the government does not appear to contemplate any proceedings against the other culprits.

AN ALASKA DEFAULTER.

Deputy Marshal Adolph Meyer Arrested at Sitka.

San Francisco, Oct. 19.—News has been received here of the arrest at Sitka of Adolph Meyer, deputy marshal and confidential clerk to United States Marshal Porter, for embezzlement. It is said that Meyer has made a confession. It appears that when Marshal Porter went out of office he left several cheques signed in blank. These, according to the story, the deputy passed and filed in for various amounts. It is believed the defalcation will only amount to some hundreds of dollars.

Cable News.

London, Oct. 19.—The Pall Mall Gazette says: "It is reported that grave differences have arisen between Lord Rosbery and Earl Kimberly.

It is rumored that Lord Beresford is engaged to the dowager Duchess of Marlborough, formerly Mrs. Hamersley of New York.

The statement that grave differences exist between Lod Rosebery and the Earl of Kimberly has been officially denied.

THE MILITIA FIRED.

They Were Ordered to Protect a Prisoner From Lynchers and Did So.

But Their Bullets Found Victims Among the Innocent Spectators.

Washington Court House, O., Oct. 18.—Although Jasper Dolby, colored, pleaded guilty to outraging Mrs. Mary C. Boyd, in order to be rushed off to the penitentiary for protection, he did not get started in advance of the indignant mobs. People were swarming into the town all day. The sheriff could not get from the jail to the depot after the prisoner had been sentenced.

A little after six o'clock the first rush was made on the court house. A crowd of determined men attempted to break in the south door, while another party charged on the militia at the north door. Some one threw a stone at Colonel Colt, and he cried out that at the next stone thrown he would order his men to fire. The crowd at the door were unable to effect an entrance. The court yard by this time was filled with people, and cries, "Give us the nigger!" and curses against the militia filled the air. The crowd grew in size every minute. Col. Colt made a speech asking the crowd to disperse, but it was received with jeers. The prisoner was prostrated with fear, and lay crying and moaning. Up to this time Dolby and his guards had been kept prisoners in the court yard by the mob, which then made an attack. The militia replied to them without firing at first, but another onslaught was made and the south door was forced open. The door opens upon the street, which was filled with men, women and children.

The detachment of the guards finally fired upon the attacking party. None of the latter were hurt, but a dozen or more persons on the street were struck. Two were killed outright and four more fatally wounded, one of them having died since.

Upon the firing the mob dispersed in all directions, but soon gathered again. Immediately all places of business in the city were shut up. Mayor Creamer peremptorily closed all places where liquors were sold. Every street was filled with people. No time was lost in carrying away the dead and wounded.

Business houses and the engine house were converted into hospitals. All the surgeons in the city were called into service. Mothers, sisters, wives and sweethearts crowded around the dead and wounded, and added fire to the rage of the mob by their lamentations.

The feeling against the military is bitter, vicious and vehement. It pervades all classes. As time passed the mob grew in size and fury. All over the country, by telephone, courier and telegraph wire, the news was spread. All the roads leading to the city were filled with men on horseback, in wagons and on foot, hurrying with all possible speed to the scene of bloodshed. Meanwhile in Washington Court House a search was going on for arms, ammunition and dynamite. Shouts were heard of "Down with the military!" "Blow up the dogs along with the black fiend!" The shouts but feebly expressed the pent up passion of everybody. Everybody was in the street, and all were members of the mob as far as personal feeling was concerned. Men moved about as if bent on business, but said nothing. There is no doubt of a purpose to blow up the court house. Of this the military are aware.

Dolby's crime was committed one week ago at Parrott's station. Mrs. Mary C. Boyd, aged 55, was his victim. He was brought into court at 4 o'clock this afternoon, pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to twenty years in the penitentiary. An angry mob gathered about the jail yard yesterday afternoon, after Dolby had been identified by his victim, and Sheriff Cook called to his assistance the local militia company. This action increased the fury against Dolby, and Gov. McKinley was appealed to for additional assistance, and troops from Columbus were sent here this morning. Colonel Colt was in command. The mob surrounded the jail and court house, attempting to take Dolby from the officers when he was removed from the jail to the court house for trial, but they were kept at bay by the use of bayonets and clubbed guns. Henry Kirk, brother-in-law of the assaulted woman, was thrown down the steps of the court house and badly bruised. Another man was bayoneted through the finger, while a bayonet was thrust through the clothing of another. Deputies with drawn revolvers guarded the prisoner in the court room.

ing around for help. Soldiers were marched in to keep the crowd quiet. After sentence the prisoner was taken to the grand jury room. A crowd gathered about the court house, and it was impossible to get the prisoner through to take him to the train. The officers were powerless to get Dolby from the court house to the jail or to the train, and Sheriff Cook wired the governor to send more troops. At midnight the court house yard was cleared, but the angry crowd remained in the square, still uttering threats.

The prisoner Dolby spent a night of horror in the jail last night. He was brought from Delaware at 5.40 last night. The appearance of the mob outside of the jail weakened Dolby of his bravado, and he hurried to the jail with evident relief. There he passed a sleepless night, cowering upon the floor of his cell, listening to the angry mutterings of the mob outside, which swelled ominously in volume, as from every village and hamlet the rising citizens poured in to take vengeance on the wretch.

When the other prisoners discovered that Dolby was in jail they joined the crowd in cursing and hooting him, and would have done him personal injury if they had been able to reach him. "They're coming to get you, Dolby," shouted one, and the corridors of the jail resounded with the laughter of the prisoners. "They're at the door, Dolby; one of them has a rope." All through the night the prisoners kept jeering the terrified Dolby, who cowered in the darkest corner of his cell, moaning piteously. When morning dawned and the guards came to look at Dolby they found that in his abject fright he had covered the door of his cell with a sheet to shut out the sounds from without, and lay shivering on the floor. When taken into the court house he was so weak with fear that he could scarcely stand without support. He sat before the grand jury a ghastly picture, his eyes rolling, his form convulsed with sudden chills, muttering to himself like one bereft of reason.

Cincinnati, Oct. 18.—Gov. McKinley arrived at midnight from his meeting at Hamilton. He had been directing Adjt.-General Howe regarding the Washington Court House forces from points along his trip during the day. Adjt-Gen. Richards and a large delegation met the governor here. His plan was to start out on his southern trip tomorrow, but he went to Columbus. The First regiment, with Col. Hunt commanding, left this city at 10.30 to-night with four hundred men. This regiment had orders to join Col. Colt's regiment in forming a line from the jail to the depot, and to make sure of getting Dolby on board the special train that carries the First regiment.

Troops from other parts of the state are being carried to Washington Court House by special trains. If there is any more trouble to-morrow Gov. McKinley will cancel all his southern engagements.

A special to the Commercial Gazette from Washington Court House says that after the negro Dolby received his sentence to-day Elmer Boyd, a son of the outraged woman, addressed the crowd from the court house steps, begging it to disperse, "Because," he said, "I do not want any valuable lives sacrificed in an attempt to destroy a worthless life." The mob hooted him and he went away.

The special says Colonel Colt, the military commander, warned the mob that if it broke the doors of the jail the soldiers would fire. When the door was broken and the soldiers fired some one shouted, "They are firing blank cartridges." It was some time before the crowd realized that deadly bullets were coming, and when they did they fled in all directions.

SATOLLI'S ELEVATION.

Report that He Is to be Appointed a Cardinal Revived.

New York, Oct. 18.—The Press this morning says: In two weeks or thereabouts Mgr. Satolli will be elevated to the rank of a cardinal. The authority assured his hearers that his information was received from the highest possible source and was thoroughly authentic. In fact, he asserted that the pope's messenger, bearing the red hat and the necessary documents, is already on his way to America, and upon the day of his arrival the interesting ceremonies will be publicly announced.

The World will say to-morrow morning: The World is in a position to state positively that Mgr. Satolli has received official notice from the vatican that he is to be created a cardinal.

THOMPSON'S TRIP.

Going to England in Reference to the Intercolonial Conference.

London, Oct. 18.—The Morning Post will say to-morrow of Sir John Thompson's proposed visit to England: "The Canadian premier's visit undoubtedly has some connection with the resolutions of the Ottawa Intercolonial Conference. Owing to the apathy of the Australian colonies, it is unlikely that the government will enter into any contract with Canada anent the cable and steamship lines until a formal offer from Australia arrives. Minor questions, such as copyright, can however be debated with a prospect of obtaining Great Britain's views. Sir John Thompson may be sure of a hearty reception and general encouragement of his views in promoting closer relations between Canada and the mother country."

FAST ATLANTIC SERVICE.

Mr. Huddart Has the Support of Admiral Hopkins.

London, Oct. 18.—Admiral Hopkins has written an open letter to Mr. James Huddart, who came to England in the interests of the Canadian Atlantic steamship service. In it he says: "It seems a pity that the enterprise and genius which completed the magnificent service over the major part of the route between the [illegible] west viz., the Canadian Pacific railway —should not be backed by some further enterprise to enable them to furnish means for covering the remaining portion and making the whole journey possible in a far shorter time than at present. The dangers of navigation may be dismissed as existing but surmountable. I feel confident that most of the commanders of the Allan and Dominion steamers would unhesitatingly and with alacrity exchange their present vessels for others running twenty knots. Detention by fog is no greater for a fast ship than a slow one. That does not affect the present position."

Don't commit suicide on account of your "incurable" blood disease. The sensible thing for you to do is to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. If that fails, why, then—keep on trying, and it will not fail. The trouble is, people get discouraged too soon. "Try try, try again."

OUTBREAK OF MINERS.

Union Strikers Ambush and Shoot Non-Union Men.

Ashland, Oct. 18.—The outbreak that has been expected for some days in the Carter county mining district began this morning in the ambushing of miners of the Straight Creek mine by the strikers. The miners were fired upon from the bushes along the hill as they were going to work and a number were wounded. Jack Marquam and John Morris were perhaps fatally shot, while Bob Evans, John Adams and several whose names are not known were also shot and badly injured. The bullets came from Winchester rifles. During the whole day the appearance of a miner at the pit mouth was the signal for renewed firing. The sheriff and a posse were summoned and spent the day scouring the hills and succeeded in capturing seven persons, all of whom protested their innocence. They were removed to Gryson for safe keeping. The excitement is intense and further trouble is expected.

JAPANESE PARLIAMENT.

Convened for the Purpose of Raising War Funds.

London, Oct. 18.—A dispatch from Hiroschima, Japan, says: "A session of parliament was held here to-day. The speech from the throne was delivered by the Mikado in person. His majesty said he had decided to convene an extraordinary session and had given directions to his ministers to submit for the deliberation of the diet bills providing for increased expenditure of the army and navy—an important matter. He declared that he was greatly pained that China should have forgotten her duties in regard to the maintenance of peace in the east in conjunction with Japan. "But as she brought about the present state of affairs," said the Mikado, "and as hostilities have begun, we will not stop until we shall have attained our objects." He hoped that all his subjects in the empire would co-operate with the government to restore peace by means of a great triumph for the Japanese army.

Action of Labor Leaders—European Political Questions.

London, Oct. 18.—Dispatches to the Times from Berlin say there is no longer any doubt that the meeting of the Prussian ministerial council on Friday last revealed several differences of opinion. It may be gathered that Chancellor Caprivi is not prepared to undertake the responsibility of introducing repressive measures entailing electoral struggles and possibly a constitutional conflict.

The Hamburger Nachrichten publishes an article, evidently inspired by Prince Bismarck, stating that the Prussian council advocates repressive measures, and that the chancellor ought either to accept these measures or resign.

The socialist members of the chamber of deputies have decided to open negotiations with the labor deputies throughout Europe, with a view of adopting a common policy in every parliament.

A dispatch from Brussels to the Times says: It is rumored that M. de Burlet, prime minister and minister of the interior and public instruction, will resign and that he will be succeeded in the premiership by M. Bernhardt, formerly prime minister.

It is stated that frauds have been discovered in the candidature of M. Wocste, the clerical leader, elected in East Flanders, but that his election will not be annulled.

Emil von der Velt, the socialist leader of the labor party, claims that he has formed an international group of socialist deputies in all the countries of Europe, the members of which will pursue common aims, including the advocacy of proportional representation.

King Alexander of Servia arrived at Potsdam last evening from Buda-Pesth, on a visit to Emperor William. Great preparations had been made for his reception, and it was generally understood that his visit had no political significance. The railway station was beautifully decorated and a guard of honor was drawn up on the platform. The party which received the young king was a brilliant one. The emperor greeted the young king most cordially, and after an inspection of the guard of honor their majesties drove to the palace, escorted by the guards. A grand gala dinner was given at the new palace. The emperor proposed the health of King Alexander. The latter, speaking in German, thanked Emperor William for the cordiality of his reception, and said he hoped the friendly relations between Germany and Servia would be further strengthened.

The workingmen of Vienna, who are agitating for universal suffrage, had today one of their periodical collisions with the police. After a mass meeting in which they were addressed by the social democratic orators, ten thousand of them marched out into the strasse toward the reichsrath. Two companies of mounted police, who had been called out the moment the procession started, met the head of the column and ordered the men to disperse. The street crowd hurried to the assistance of the leaders and formed a compact body, which swelled rapidly as the workingmen marched up from the rear. The police charged with drawn swords. The crowd was too dense to leave those in front any opportunity to retreat and many men were cut and trampled.

ANOTHER SEVERE STORM.

Newfoundland Coast Visited by a Storm Accompanied by Floods.

St. John's, Nfld., Oct. 18.—Another severe storm swept over the coast last night, accompanied by rain and floods. The storm has not abated yet. All the shipping in the harbor is tied up, it being impossible for any vessel to move. At the height of the storm the schooner Henrietta broke from her moorings and collided with other vessels in the harbor, damaging them in various ways. No reports are yet available from the outports, but it is believed that the south coast suffered considerable damage. The gale prevented the steamer Ingraham from collecting the ballot boxes used in the election in the Twillingate district, and the result of the election will not be known before to-morrow night or Saturday. The overdue steamer Falcon, from Philadelphia, has not yet arrived, and much apprehension is felt for her safety.

THE MISSING IVANHOE.

[illegible] the Overdue Ship.

Tacoma, Oct. 18.—Captain John D. Libbey, manager of the Puget Sound tugboat company, who is one of the best posted men upon shipping and navigation in this section, was here to-day, and gave it as his opinion that the ship Ivanhoe is undoubtedly at the bottom of the Pacific. He says that the vessel is 25 years old and not at all seaworthy. Capt. Libbey last night telegraphed to Port Townsend from Seattle, ordering the powerful tug Sea Lion to proceed at once and cruise at least one hundred miles off shore from Cape Flattery in the hope that the fate of the Ivanhoe may be definitely known. If the Sea Lion was not available then some other tug was to make the cruise.

Hon. John Collins, of Seattle, who was also here to-day, on the other hand, thinks that the Ivanhoe may and probably will turn up all right. Mr. Collins says that he has made the trip from San Francisco to Seattle by sail, once in 29 days and at another time in 24 days. He says that the trip down sometimes, although not very frequently, takes just as long.

The Ivanhoe is an American ship, 1610.80 tons gross burden and 1563.10 tons net. Her length is 202.3 feet, her breadth 39.3 feet and her depth 27.6 feet. She was built in 1865 at Belfast, Maine. Her registry port at present is San Francisco.

SHOULD DOUBLE HER ARMY.

That is Major-General Howard's Advice to the United States.

Washington, Oct. 18.—The annual report of Major-General O. O. Howard, commanding the department of the east, recommends an increase of the army to at least double the size of its present force. In his judgment it will be the best possible method of preserving peace until the vexatious questions which are now troubling the country are put at rest by a solution satisfactory to the people. General Howard expresses the opinion that already our coast defences are in pretty good condition, and in conjunction with our ever-increasing naval armament there will be little to fear from outside aggressions.

SOME FAMOUS FRENCH COOKS.

One of Them Is Said to Have an Income of $35,000 a Year.

The French have always been proud of their cooks. In the old time, Gaston Phoebus at a single meal served up as many as 300 different dishes, all of which were the creations of his own brain. The present cook of the Lion d'Or brings out a new dish of his own each season. But this is no longer common. There are signs that French cookery has had its day and is living on the reputation of the past. Still there are great names and successes to recommend it.

Gambetta, who dearly loved good living, made a stir at one time with the fortunes of his cook. This was the famous Trompette. He had been the cook of the Duc de Noailles, but the republican dictator persuaded him to leave the service of aristocracy by offering him a salary of $2,400 a year. This was something enormous for France. It must be remembered, however, that the commission of 1 cent out of every 20 which the French cooks collect from tradesmen, along with the remnants and savings and pickings and other benefices, amount to many times over the original salary. In the large Parisian clubs, where the best cooks are now said to be found, their annual income is estimated at from $4,000 a year. Gambetta, who had all his money from politics, was open-handed. When he died Trompette was able to retire with a handsome fortune to a villa which he had bought down in Berri. There he rested from his labors and became as mighty a fisherman as he had been an accomplished cook. Then he died.

This was only last autumn, when the Russians were visiting Paris and being feated elsewhere. To their surprise all the French papers declared that with Trompette the glorious traditions of French cookery had passed. The great cooks were no more. This is doubtless an exaggeration, although there are signs that the rushing and careless spirit of the age has brought down the standard of cooking, which was so long a fine art in France. Abroad the renown of the French cook is as great as ever.

There are still famous cooks in Paris. The complaint is that they tend to disappear from the great public establishments, where their place has been taken by slovenly workmen, who have not the old conscientious art. Aurelien Scholl, who was the chronicler of the Boulevard in its glory, says that to dine well at a restaurant nowadays you must take the train to Brussels. He attributes the decadence to the new generation of restauranteurs, many of whom have worked their way up from being mere waiters, and are far too great a hurry to make their fortunes. It is also said that the official dinners given by the ministers of state are too often only fit to poison their guests. A parvenu politician has neither the time nor the taste to keep that watch over his kitchen to which the thoroughbreds of the old regime used to be trained.

President Casimir-Perier, so it is said again, is an exception to this rule under the republic. Fleuret, the cook whom he has installed in the Elysee, was with him when he was minister of foreign affairs, and also when he was president of the chamber of deputies. He is a man that has accredited himself. He is fit to rival with the cook of the Duc de Doudauaville, who has never served in a less family than a baron's, or with Bouzon, who is now with the Duchess of Alba, after winning his renown under the empire of Prince Orloff. Thus another barrier is removed between the Faubourg Saint Germain and the Elysee.

The Russians themselves could appeal to the splendid example of their czar's kamerfourier. He is very much of a chef, for he is at the head of all the imperial kitchens, and he has the right to wear a sword. It is not the first time, as he has fought on the French side all through the war of 1870. When Germany finally took possession of his native Alsace, he went to seek his fortune in Russia rather than dwell at home with the conqueror. M. Grants, soon became famous, and his dishes may have helped on the Franco-Russian alliance. Alexander III. has exempted him from the law which requires that the imperial cooks shall at least be naturalized Russians, and he has even extended this privilege to the numerous French undercooks whom the chef has in his employ.

M. Krants, whose French [illegible] thus recognized along with his cookery, is a great man at court. He has under his orders four furnishing officers, with 130 lackeys and apprentice boys, besides his own especial corps of two assistant chefs, with 42 professional aids, 20 apprentices, 32 waiters, two bakers and two confectioners in chief, with their special assistants to the number of 20. He has five secretaries for correspondence, bills, menus, and the rest. The grandees of the court remark that this French cook has a clear revenue of $35,000 a year.

The chief cook and the head pastryman of Queen Victoria are French, and so is the chef of the Prince of Wales. Another who served his apprenticeship under Jules Couffe of the Paris Jockey Club, has been successively cook to the kings of Sweden and Roumania, to the Banker Rothschild, and latterly to that German Prince of Battenberg, who married a granddaughter of Queen Victoria. It is even whispered in Berlin that the conqueror has capitulated and Kaiser Wilhelm eats according to the dictation of a French chef. The $10,000 French cook of the American railroad king Vanderbilt is not forgotten in Paris. He has opened a restaurant across the way from the Opera Comique, which they are now rebuilding at the old site where the fire took place in 1887.—Philadelphia Times.

THE NEW WOMAN.

A Being Whose Appearance Was Perplexing to the Crowd.

"The 'New Woman,'" writes a correspondent of the British Weekly, "was unpleasantly in evidence at Ballater Station the other day. A large crowd was awaiting the arrival of Her Majesty, and on the qui vive for her appearance, when a strange figure on a bicycle drew all eyes upon itself. He, or she—which? was the question that rose involuntarily to to every lip. The attire was that of a man—narrow trousers and very short, tight-fitting jacket of dark blue cloth, white shirt front, tie, jaunty 'billicock.' But an indefinite something in figure and bearing, together with the coil of hair, convinced the women present that they must reluctantly claim her as one of their sex. A British matron of the old school, surrounded by her innocents, expressed her disapproval by a distinct hiss which was joined by several other outraged ladies. The object of derision instantly dismounted, and, facing the crowd, exclaimed defiantly, 'Are you women who thus hiss me? When you bathe you wear a bathing dress; when I cycle I wear a cycling dress—what is the difference? No one being prompt to reply, she slowly rode off, no doubt feeling she had materially upheld the right of women to defy Mrs. Grundy and all her tribe. We have since heard that this same Amazon had paraded herself before Her Majesty at Crathie Bazaar. On her way there she entered a smoking compartment at Dinnet Station, and caused much perplexity in the honest minds of a coterie of Aberdeen bailies, who were in doubt as to whether she were or were not one of their own sex in garments of indifferent cut.'"

"We always fry ours in Cottolene."

Our Meat, Fish, Oysters, Saratoga Chips, Eggs, Doughnuts, Vegetables, etc.

Like most other people, our folks formerly used lard for all such purposes. When it disagreed with any of the family (which it often did) we said it was "too rich." We finally tried and not one of us has had an attack of "richness" since. We further found that, unlike lard, Cottolene had no unpleasant odor when cooking, and lastly Mother's favorite and conservative cooking authority came out and gave it a big recommendation which clinched the matter. So that's why we always fry ours in Cottolene.

THE VICTORIAN SITUATION.

The Colonist makes an exceedingly clumsy attempt to ridicule our conclusion that the freedom of trade idea is gaining ground in Victoria colony because in the recent election the party with which the free trade and tariff reform groups allied themselves was victorious. It professes to find in this a want of logic, and it advances this very peculiar argument on its own side:

Let us assume for argument sake that the issue was the acceptance or a rejection of a railway scheme. Would the circumstance of the free traders voting on one side change the issue from one of railroad or no railroad to that of free [illegible] According to our contemporary's logic it would—and it is strong on logic.

While it is perfectly plain to all people that the raising of a revenue and the framing of a tariff have a very intimate connection, there is nobody outside of the Colonist office who would see any such connection between the framing of a tariff and the building of a railway. The assumption that there is argues not only want of logic but want of common sense. It is quite evident that the Victorian free traders find Mr. Turner's proposed method of treating the finances more favorable to their side of the tariff question than that of the Patterson ministry, else they would not have supported Mr. Turner's party. It is equally evident that the success of that party meant to a certain degree the success of the free trade idea. There is more than this, however. The Turner party decidedly favors Australian federation and complete free trade between the colonies, and that measure of free trade would doubtless appear well worth contending for. Further, the most strongly protectionist members of the Patterson ministry were defeated, a circumstance that is not without significance. We respectfully call the Colonist's attention to this portion of the London Times' comments on the result of the elections:

The late parliament included in its political groups a moderate body who have shown themselves wisely prepared to place tariff questions in their proper rank as secondary to the urgent need to re-establish the finances of the colony on a sound and practical footing. The question of public finance has now become the supreme question in Victoria, and the best hope of finding a satisfactory solution for it lies, no doubt, in some amalgamation of the moderate views of both parties. It is difficult to believe, in the face of the experience of the last few years, that a reversion to the principle of protection, pure and simple, can be contemplated. The revenue yielding effect of the lower customs duties of New Zealand and New South Wales can hardly be disregarded by a treasurer casting about him for the means of balancing his budget. The average New Zealand tariff is 15 per cent. lower than that of Victoria. It yields in revenue £1 2s. 2d. per head of population more than that of Victoria. If we calculate this increase as applied to the existing population of Victoria, the result is an extra £1,300,000 per annum. Had the Victorian treasurer collected that sum in the last financial year, the deficit of £665,338 would have been converted into a surplus of almost the same amount.

This latter consideration is a most important one for Canadians. The Liberals say a lowering of the tariff would tend to improve, not impair, the revenue, while it would lessen the unjust tribute now paid to the favored few. The experience of New Zealand and Victoria most forcibly bears out this contention.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

[illegible] speech it would not be very difficult to expose its emptiness," says the Tory organ. Fortunately Tupper's empty speech exposes its own emptiness, and thus its author kindly saves other people the trouble.

The Kamloops dispatch and the letter which we publish to-day—both of which come from perfectly reliable sources—make it quite clear that Mr. Martin did give a pledge to oppose further aid to the British Pacific. The fact is that the Colonist has in this case, as in many others, been guilty of falsehood in its eagerness to serve its masters. We are not surprised to find Mr. Martin giving a pledge of this character, for it is quite in harmony with his previous attitude on this matter, but we are a little at astonished to find even so servile a journal as the Colonist willing to violate the truth at any politician's dictation.

Speaking of the imperial customs union idea and the prize offered by the Times for the best scheme, the London Times says: "In Canada the urgent necessity of industrial friendship with the United States admits of no discussion. The figures of trade are decisive in themselves. Canada imports from the United States, according to the latest figures which we are able to use for the purposes of comparison, were of the value of £11,627,514, while their imports in the same year from Great Britain were of the value of £6,869,808. Evidently Canadian trade could not afford to lay a burden [illegible] the trade of the United States, the chance of giving advantage to the smaller. When we say that Canada could not afford to agree to such a step, we mean that it would not be in her best interest to do so. Nor would it be in our own. By these and by many other reasons which might be adduced, we are driven to the conclusion that colonial and imperial interests will best be served by keeping the questions of political and commercial union entirely distinct from one another. If a customs union were to be formed on any other basis than that of free trade for revenue purposes, it hardly appears to us to admit of question that such a union would have to be framed so as to include the United States."

MR. MARTIN'S RE-ELECTION.

To the Editor: The morning paper is very much elated over the fact that the "intended opposition" to Mr. Martin turned out "a fizzle," and is as fulsomely sycophantic in its praises of the new chief commissioner as of the old, when every sensible man who had any business to do with him knows that a more clumsy blunderer than the late chief commissioner could not be found. As to the new one being capable and "discreet," time will tell. Now is the morning paper prepared to deny that not only did Mr. Martin purchase his re-election on the strength of a promise not to support any bill assisting the British Pacific railway, but has actually pledged himself in writing to resign if the government passes any such measure.

QUERY.

DANGERS OF THE PRAIRIE.

Two Lethbridge Men Who Spent the Night in a Storm.

Mr. L. N. McEwen, of this town, passed through an experience on Friday night last which he is not likely to forget for the remainder of his days. On Friday morning last he, in company with four others, started out on a shooting trip, intending to go to Rush lake, a distance of 45 miles from town, and camp for a couple of days. He started about 8 o'clock on a light breakfast and expecting to reach camp early in the afternoon did not stop for dinner. After passing Lumpy Butte, about two miles this side of the lake, McEwen left the party to go on and make camp while he went down to a small lake, expecting to get a shot at some geese. Arriving there he sat down on its edge and he thinks must have fallen asleep, as first thing he knew the storm, which was the worst of the season, and as bad as this section has witnessed for some years, was upon him in full force. He attempted to reach camp, but between the darkness and the storm he got turned around and was unable to get there after walking some hours. Realizing that he would likely have to spend the night on the prairie he selected as sheltered a spot he could find, laid down his gun, and commenced walking up and down to keep his blood in circulation. This he continued to do until daylight appeared, when he found he had in his search for camp the previous evening wandered some three miles north of the Butte when he should have been south of it. In the meantime the party in camp made strenuous exertions to find him, but being unsuccessful, decided to go to the police detachment on the St. Mary's and get the police to turn out and assist in the search. Having lost their horses in the storm, two of them had to walk a distance of three miles in the storm to reach the detachment, and several times they came nearly being lost themselves. In the morning the police turned out on horseback and about 9 o'clock McEwen was found on the trail, making his way to camp, wet and almost exhausted. Some brandy was administered to him, and after some rest and some sleep he was all right, but still feels a little sore from his exertions.

The same night Mr. Sefton, who was out with another party in the same neighborhood, started from Colles for camp, but got lost in the storm and had to sleep on the prairie. He, however, was pretty well provided, having a team, fur coat, buffalo robe and oil cloth. He also was picked up by the police in the morning, and when found was dazed from cold and fright.—Lethbridge News.

HARNESSING THE LIGHTNING.

Natural Supplies of the Atmosphere may Be Used.

[illegible] days, instead of making electricity for ourselves we shall learn to tap the immense store of the electric fluid that pervades the higher atmosphere; that, in fact, we shall be able to "harness the lightning." Professor Trowbridge shows that a discharge keeps in the same path for 300-1000 part of a second, and he believes that a "step-down" transformer—a device by which the voltage of the discharge would be reduced—might render it fit for the service of man. An average thunderstorm is estimated to contain about 300 horse power of electrical energy. A flash of lightning a quarter of a mile long practically means an electromotive force of millions of volts. Reckoning on the basis that a flash occurs when the electrical strain on the air is 1.37 pounds per cubic foot, the total electrical energy in a cubic mile of the strained air just on the point of flashing is about 70,000,000 foot tons, or, in other words, the energy required to raise a ton 70,000,000 feet high. Electricians are now trying to think out how this enormous power can be brought down to earth and utilized, and they talk of employing some modification of Franklin's kite, at all events for experimental work. If they should succeed the corralling of lightning flashes may come to be a profitable business.—Philadelphia Times.

HE PREFERS A CELL.

A Burglar After Being Released for Good Behavior Wants to Return.

New York, Oct. 19.—A mild-featured man with black side whiskers and moustache walked into the East 51st street police station last evening and laid a red-covered book on the desk in front of Sergeant Gehegan. "I stole a book," he said, "and I want to give myself up." The sergeant believing the man insane, questioned him further. The stranger said that he had broken into the house at 3 East 43rd street on Wednesday night. He found the iron door at the back of the house open and had made his way in by breaking the glass of the inner door and relieving the latch. He went up into the library, and not succeeding in finding any money, he lit the gas. After reading for some time from a book he found there he laid down on a lounge and slept until morning. He then quietly arose and let himself out of the front door. The sergeant after listening to this story was more than ever certain that the man was insane, but he sent a policeman to the house at 3, East 43rd street, the home of Edgar V. Vanwinkle. It was ascertained that the house had been entered the night before, and that the case had been reported to the police. Mr. Vanwinkle came to the station house with the policeman and identified the book, which was a [illegible] of Whittier's poems, as his property. The self-confessed burglar said he was Charles Troll, of the South Fifth Avenue hotel. He is 28 years old, and on November 25th, 1887, while known by the name of Charles Embrose, entered the house of M. S. Bromley at 9 West 53rd street, about three o'clock in the morning. He was discovered by Roundsman Wallang on Fifth avenue near 53rd street, fired two shots at the officer. The officer returned the fire but neither was hit, although the burglar was captured. The house of Frank E. Coe, on Fifth avenue, near the Vanderbilt house, had been entered a few days before. After Embrose was caught it was found that the revolver with which he had shot at the officer, had been taken from Mr. Coe's home. For these burglaries he was sentenced to Sing Sing for ten years, but for good behavior was released three months ago. Troll told the police he had entered the house in the hope of getting $30 with which to buy his passage to Switzerland. He said that he had an incurable malady and as he could not raise the money he wanted to go back to Sing Sing.

"BALANCE OF TRADE."

Daniel Webster on the Bugaboo That Troubles Canadian Tories.

From a speech by Webster in April, 1824:—"Let us inquire, sir, what is meant by an unfavorable balance of trade, and what the argument is, drawn from that source. By an unfavorable balance of trade, I understand is meant that state of things in which importation exceeds exportation. To apply it to your own case, if the value of goods imported exceeds the value of those exported, then the balance of trade is said to be against us, inasmuch as we have run in debt to the amount of this difference. Therefore, it is said that if a nation continue long in a commerce like this, it must be rendered absolutely bankrupt. It is in the condition of a man who buys more than he sells; and how can such a traffic be maintained without ruin? Now, sir, the whole fallacy of this argument consists in supposing that whenever the value of imports exceed that of exports, a debt is necessarily created to the extent of the difference, whereas, ordinarily the import is no more than the result of the export, augmented in value by the labor of transportation. The excess of imports over exports in truth usually shows the gains, not losses, of trade; or, in a country that not only buys and sells goods, but employs ships in carrying goods also, it shows the profits of commerce, and the earnings of navigation. Nothing is more certain than that, in the usual course of things, and taking a series of years together, the value of our imports is the aggregate of our exports and our freights. If the value of commodities imported in a given instance did not exceed the value of the outward cargo, with which they were purchased, then it would be clear to every man's common sense, that the voyage had not been profitable. If such commodities fell far short in value of the cost of the outward cargo, then the voyage would be a very losing one; and yet it would present exactly that state of things which accord- [illegible] can alone indicate a prosperous commerce. On the other hand, if the return cargo were found to be worth much more than the outward cargo while the merchant, having paid for the goods exported, and all the exported, and all the expenses of the voyage, finds a handsome sum yet in his hands, which he calls profits, the balance of trade is still against him, and whatever he may think of it, he is in a very bad way; although one individual or all individuals gain, the nation loses; while all the citizens grow rich, the country grows poor. This is the doctrine of the balance of trade.

LITTLE DOROTHY DREW.

Mr. Gladstone's Granddaughter Runs About Barefooted.

The pretty bare feet of little Dorothy Drew, Mr. Gladstone's granddaughter, are getting to be almost as well known and as much in evidence as those of the immortal "Trilby." It has been a theory of Dorothy's parents that she shall be brought up barefooted and barefooted she is on most occasions.

A woman who was at an association fete recently at Hawarden gives in the Boston Herald an interesting picture of the little girl and her feet:

"At four o'clock, when we paid our sixpence admission to the terrace, the sun was shining brightly in the castle and grounds. A space immediately opposite the centre walk from the house was roped off for Mr. Gladstone and his party. A few ladies had already taken their seats on the wall and on chairs within this enclosure, when, like a little bird, Dorothy Drew came dancing along from the castle. When the immense crowd in the field below caught sight of her they cheered lustily. Evidently she is accustomed to being 'well received,' for she danced up to the wall and stood smiling, with the most perfect self-possession. She is only a tiny mite and was very simply dressed in a pink frock and a white washing hat. She began pulling at her frock, and in a moment, with her mother's help, off came her little brown shoes and stockings, and she was barefooted. For the rest of the afternoon she remained so, and ran about with equal ease on both gravel walks and grass.

"While we waited for Mr. Gladstone she sat on the terrace wall, plucking ivy leaves and throwing them into the crowd. Then she stuck the leaves between her toes and waved her little foot to the people. She has exquisitely formed legs and feet, and I was told that she is often seen in the village barefooted.

* * * When her grandfather alluded so prettily to her in his speech, Mrs. Gladstone lifted her up on the wall beside him, where they stood hand in hand, while the crowd cheered themselves hoarse. It was a pretty sight. The old man's face glowed with pride when he bent down and told her to kiss her hand to the people. She was lifted down again out of sight, but for the rest of the afternoon she was dancing—always dancing here, there and everywhere on her little bare feet."

CHAMPION DERELICT.

A Wreck that Has Been Floating Round For Three Years.

The champion derelict of the world has been again sighted, and if she keeps afloat for less than another three months she will have been "tramping" the north Atlantic for three whole years. The Fannie E. Wolston was abandoned on December 15, 1891, off Cape Hatteras, whence she drifted eastward until the following June, when a current setting north caught her. She got out of this current, and a year after her abandonment was sighted in latitude 35 degrees north, longitude 38 degrees west. At the end of her second year this Wandering Jew of the sea was not far south of Bermuda. Since then she has frequently been seen travelling very slowly down in the neighborhood of the Bahamas, and up again in the Gulf Stream. On June 6th last she was passed only 180 miles east of the spot where she was abandoned by her crew 980 days before. Just now she is right in the path of the United States and Brazilian vessels, and, as her decks are awash, she is an object to be avoided. Her main deck and cabin are completely washed out, but it is remarkable that, despite of her long crewless voyage and the washing and tearing of the many storms in the region where she has been drifting, she still has her quarters above the plank shear showing remarkably white, and the paint is in good order.

She is to be on the railway for several days and the work to be done on her will require the services of a number of workmen.

—In war it is a name, not an army. In politics it is a name, not a mob. In commerce it is pre-eminently a name for peculiar distinction. The name of Priestley is associated with the manufacture of fine dress fabrics, as Worth is associated with the cut of a gown. Priestley's dress fabrics are now sold in Canada by first-class dealers. They are made of wool and wool and silk, and are distinguished by an exquisite fineness of texture and a beautiful draping quality. Ladies should ask for Priestley's dress fabrics. The trade mark is the "Varnished Board" on which the goods are rolled.

—"Charley's Aunt" will be on view in this city for the first time on Tuesday evening at the Victoria theatre, and will undoubtedly make a strong hit. A young fellow who for a joke disguises himself as an eccentric widow worth some few millions, is made love to by two passionate suitors, and has to invent fairy tales rapidly to keep up the role he is unwillingly playing. An excellent company under the direction of Charles Frohman will present the comedy. The play of "Charley's Aunt" has a phenomenal record in London, New York, Boston and Chicago. A grand ladies' matinee and the evening performance on Wednesday will close the engagement.

—Moy Sing Mow, a wealthy Chicago Chinese merchant, is in Victoria, an exile from his adopted country, unless he wishes to return and stand trial for perjury. Some time ago Moy swore before Collector Saunders of Port Townsend, that he was coming to Victoria for his wife, who was born in Portland and whom he had married in Victoria in 1888. Upon investigation it was found that the alleged wife had never been in the States. It is said that Chicago, who was here several days ago, came for the purpose of trying to release his partner, for such Moy is. It is alleged that the wife was brought over from China for immoral purposes, that Moy was to pay $1000 for her and was to receive $3000 from Chicago parties.

—Lindley & Foster, the taxidermists, are mounting two interesting specimens. One is the head of a mule deer with 27 prongs and is the property of His Honor Lieut.-Governor Dewdney. The other is a "two-pow" moose head. They are greatly admired by all who see them and particularly by fanciers of such trophies of the field.

—There will be a public meeting at the city hall to-morrow night at 8 o'clock for the purpose of arranging for the reception to be tendered to His Excellency Lord Aberdeen. Mayor Teague has called the meeting, but as he is unwell, he will very likely be unable to preside. There should be a good attendance of the representative business men of the city.

—The tug Lorne has been quite busy for the last few days. She first picked the bark Melrose up in the straits and towed her to Departure bay. She then brought the bark Highland Light from Union to Departure bay. She next went to Vancouver after the coal barge Robert Ker and towed her to Departure bay, and then brought the ship Louis Walsh from Port Angeles to Esquimalt. Shipping promises to be active in British Columbia ports this winter.

—Victorians are to be given a chance to hear Cassasa's famous band on Monday night. George W. Bennett, business manager of the band, is in the city and has arranged with Lieut.-Colonel Prior and the officers of the B. C. B. G. A. for a concert at the drill shed under their patronage. The details of the matter were all arranged this morning. Cassasa's band includes forty trained musicians, and their engagements in San Francisco, Sacramento and Tacoma have been great successes. They are highly praised by the newspapers, and it is asserted that at the three cities mentioned the band greatly increased the gate receipts.

—Harvest services were held last evening, St. Luke's day, at St. Luke's church, Cedar Hill. There was a large attendance from the city and surrounding district, and the services were greatly enjoyed. King; banjo solo, Mr. Russell; song, Rev. J. W. Flinton; song, Miss King; recitation, Miss Macbius; song, Mr. J. Kingham; song, Mr. Johnson; male quintette, Messrs. Committee of management for the present year, Rev. G. C. R. Hayward, N. Wilson, A. A. Colquhoun, W. H. G. Mason, J. N. Morse. The members will meet in the parlor of the school room, Humboldt street, every Monday evening at 8 p.m. A standing and cordial invitation to join the society is extended to all young men. At the meeting next Monday evening the programme for the winter will be decided upon.

—Between two and three o'clock Wednesday morning the steamer City of Kingston ran into a boom of logs belonging to the Tacoma mill company off West Point lighthouse, breaking through the boom chains and setting the logs in four sections of the boom adrift. There was no light burning on the boom at the time of the accident, and owing to the rolling of the logs in the heavy swell running one could not, it was said, be kept burning. The pilot of the Kingston says that he did not hear the tug's signals, and, presuming that there was nothing in his way, came ahead, blowing the customary signals for a passing boat. The Kingston was not damaged by the collision and went out on her regular run. Passengers aboard the Kingston were greatly alarmed at the time of the collision with the boom. The engines were reversed and this, with the crashing and noise consequent upon striking, caused nearly a panic. People rushed from their staterooms prepared for most anything in the way of a catastrophe at sea.

MAY PROVE FATAL.

A runaway accident, which it is feared will prove fatal, occurred on the Carey road this morning. The victims were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Luscombe, who reside on Carey road. Mr. Luscombe received internal injuries which may prove fatal, and Mrs. Luscombe had her right arm broken. They were driving to town with a young horse, which became unmanageable on one of the hills and bolted. They were removed to their residence and Dr. John Duncan summoned. He set Mrs. Luscombe's arm and decided to hold a consultation on Mr. Luscombe's case. The consultation is being held this afternoon. Mr. Luscombe was formerly gardener at Carey Castle.

RUMORED CHANGES.

Reports About Canadian Pacific Changes Denied by One Interested.

A double-barrel rumor has reached Seattle via Victoria from Vancouver, the right-hand barrel being to the effect that there is to be in a few days a reorganization of the traffic departments of the Canadian Pacific, whereby the general freight and passenger departments, in charge of William Brown and George McL. Brown, assistant general freight agent and district passenger agent, respectively, will be consolidated and in charge of one of the two officials, says the Seattle Telegraph. The other barrel is briefly that upon the arrival of the Canadian Pacific railway's new steamer (mentioned in yesterday's Telegraph) Prince Rupert, the vessel would at once be put in service and Victoria be constituted one of the terminals of the Canadian Pacific railway in order to placate the Victorians, who are somewhat incensed at the Canadian Pacific for throwing all their plums to the Vancouverites to the detriment of the capital of the province. It is further stated that in all probability Mr. George McL. Brown, district passenger agent, will be the official best qualified in every respect to represent the company in Victoria. The full details will be made known in a few days.

William Brown, who is at present in the city, simply laughed when showed the above clipping. He said there was nothing in it.

MARION CRAWFORD, NOVELIST.

Mrs. Watt Continues Her Lectures at St. Ann's Convent.

Mr. Crawford's works are entertaining in the extreme, never dull, said the speaker. They are valuable from the point of view of the historian and the sociologist. He writes of many lands with intimate, sympathetic and accurate knowledge. With Scott he has created a world and peopled it with as brilliant a pageant as passed through Dryburgh Abbey, with dozens of cultivated, clever, and witty men and women, and with George Eliot he has used the dissecting knife upon the human heart. With Thackeray he has made his humor lie beneath the surface, enlivening the dialogue and the story. With Dickens he has opened accurately and transcribed faithfully. He will rank with these writers. "The Children of the King" was criticized at length, the simplicity of the story being highest art, its fluent evolution and absence of emotional crises showing the reserve power of the author. The next lecture will be upon Wordsworth.

FINANCIAL REVIEW.

Henry Clews' Report for the Week Ending October 13.

The stock market as yet shows no violent change either for the better or for the worse, notwithstanding the "professionals" are likely to remain in control, in the absence of fresh features calculated to attract a substantial demand from the public. The industrial properties continue to absorb more than their share of attention, and still form the disturbing element in the market, inasmuch as they are destroyers of confidence and are causing other securities to suffer unnecessarily and without special reason. There are but few unfavorable situations, however, out of which we do not doubt some good will result, and this one is not likely to be an exception, as in the end it will tend towards a revulsion of feeling which will place the industrials in the background, and speculative favoritism will once more be with the good railroad stocks. The movement has been "worked" for nearly all it is worth in connection with the former class of securities, and the tremendous losses which outsiders have suffered as a result of insiders' manipulation are undoubtedly going to prove a lesson not easy forgotten, and one which will naturally turn the current of speculation away from manipulated stocks and towards securities the movements of which are governed by natural causes and not by the machinations of a few men. The situation of the railroads is encouraging as far as the outlook is concerned, and although could be desired or may be expected later on, it is at least a guarantee of better things to come; and earnings are good when the general condition of business throughout the country is considered. It must be remembered that railroad returns now are being compared with those of a particularly prosperous period, when the bulk of the World's fair business was being done. When they are compared with the ordinary traffic returns the showing is not so poor after all; and with the habits of economy now being so well learned the prospects for a marked improvement in net receipts is good when the general business situation begins to mend with more rapidity, as soon it will. The "Granger" stocks have suffered for a long time on the prospect of small corn crops this year; but this idea has undoubtedly been carried too far, as present indications certainly point to the prospect of a considerably larger yield than was expected at first. The Washington agricultural report, issued on the 10th inst., shows that wheat and corn had increased over their estimate of last month and information from private sources from almost every direction is to the effect that the crops this year are much under estimated by the government. All these form another reason why an improvement may be looked for later on, for when a stock or class of goods is depressed a reaction is natural when the cause for the depression is removed or discovered to be principally the result of error. It has always been a practical impossibility to induce the public to buy stocks when they are away down; but after the range of prices has advanced to a considerable extent outsiders begin to buy. The thing to do is to purchase while it can be done at low prices and before a growing demand has advanced values. This ought to be a good time to buy properties which enjoy confidence, with the idea of putting them away and holding them for a few months at least, by which time the prices for all good securities will in all probability reach a much higher level. London, though for some time past having shown a much more marked degree of confidence in American railways, is at present doing a little liquidation, as a result principally of the slight fear of political disturbances. Should this continue it may result in a moderate shipment of gold from this side, unless there should spring up an increased demand abroad for our grain and cotton. The strength in the sterling exchange market has naturally entered into the situation to a certain extent as an unfavorable factor; but with the present superabundance of money and low rates therefor it should cause no uneasiness. The bears, however, are disposed to make the most of it to depress prices; their raids will furnish excellent opportunities to pick up cheap stocks for quick and profitable returns, and thereby be a blessing in disguise for those who avail themselves of such opportunities.

HENRY CLEWS.

FIRST ATTEMPTS.

How Some Great Writers Began Their Literary Work.

Grant Allen declares he is only a writer of fiction by accident. He began life as a schoolmaster, in charge of a government college in Jamaica, but the post being abolished, he was thrown upon his own resources, and being of a psychological turn of mind, he wrote and published, at his own expense "Physiological Æsthetics." Following this, the next venture took the form of a scientific article, written narrative style. This pleased the editor to whom it was sent so much that he eagerly, like Oliver Twist, called for more, at the same time urging Grant Allen to devote his thoughts to story-writing. Acting upon this good advice, Grant Allen, now one of the most popular writers of the day, has every reason to be glad that he did so.

J. M. Barrie made a journalistic stepping stone to literary work of a more detailed style. On leaving the university at Edinburgh, he got on the staff of a provincial paper. Encouraged by an article being accepted by a London editor to whom he had submitted it, Barrie relinquished his post and started for London with little else but hope in his pockets, to shortly after make his debut before the public as a writer of fiction with his "Auld Licht Idylls."

Rudyard Kipling also drifted from journalism into the world of authorship. Hall Caine began life as an architect, though he never rejoiced in scribbling. At eighteen he wrote a poem which was favorably accepted, and some years later, during his leisure hours, he wrote "The Shadow of a Crime," which was founded on a story told to him by his grandfather when a boy.

George Elliott did not seriously turn her thoughts to literature till she had reached her thirty-seventh year. It was in the summer of 1855 when she positively decided to write a story. Her thoughts grew busy, and one night she had a dream that she was writing a tale, the title of which was "The Sad Fortunes of the Rev. Amos Barton," and this dream, as we know, became a reality.

Charlotte Bronte originally intended becoming a schoolmistress, and studied in Brussels with that intention, giving her services as English pupil-teacher in return. Mrs. Gaskell's tuition for literary work was letter-writing. Hearing that William Howitt contemplated bringing out a book, the subject of which was to be visits to remarkable places, Mrs. Gaskell, remembering a visit she had paid a school-fellow at Clopton Hall, near Stratford-on-Avon, ventured to write to the author, pointing out the great interest attached to the place.

The recipient of the leter was so struck by the graphic and picturesque description that he wrote in reply urging Mrs. Gaskell "to use her pen for the public's benefit," but it was some time before this sound advice was carried out.

H. Rider Haggard and Stanley J. Weyman both forsook the law for the pen, while Jerome K. Jerome and Morley Roberts tried profession after profession before they turned their attention to literature. The work of a literary aspirant is "a mill that grinds exceedingly small," and the pen is no easy weapon with which to fight life's battles, but, as will be seen, choice rather than circumstances has in the case of many of our popular authors led to their adopting writing as a profession.

It is a life often full of disappointments and struggles, but no profession is more dearly loved by those pursuing it than that of writing.

RACING RULES.

There Must be a Judge for Every Horse.

In Germany if ten horses are entered in a race there are ten judges. In fact, there is always a judge for every horse. Then their races are all handicaps, says Trainer B. Tappan. Suppose a 2:40 class is called. Any horse can enter, but if he has a better record than 2:40 he is put back 25 yards for every second better. And the betting is entirely different. There are no auctions, but all mutuals. These range anywhere from 10 to 50 marks, and I have seen $125,000 bet on mutuals in one day. American horses are getting very popular over there. They are by far the best horses on the German tracks, and this fact is caused in a large degree by a new rule adopted. All horses must start from the 2:25 mark, record or no record. This is done to get a better class of horses, and then the Germans don't care whether the Americans "ring" them or not. They admit that the Yankees are too smart for them, and this rule is adopted for home protection.

"When I was a Boy,"

Writes Postmaster J. C. WOODSON, Forest Hill, W. Va., "I had a bronchial trouble of such a persistent and stubborn character, that the doctor pronounced it incurable with ordinary medicines, and advised me to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I did so, and one bottle cured me. For the last fifteen years, I have used this preparation with good effect whenever I take and I know of numbers of people who keep it in the house all the time, not considering it safe to be without it."

"I have been using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for 30 years, with the most satisfactory results, and can cheerfully recommend it as being especially adapted to all pulmonary complaints. I have, for many years, made pulmonary and other medicines a special study, and I have come to the conclusion that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral occupies a position pre-eminent over other medicines of the class."—Chas. FAIR AT SAANICH.

Twenty-Sixth Annual Exhibition of the Saanich Agricultural Society.

Keen Competition in All Classes of Exhibits — Splendid Show of Horses.

The stereotyped expression "better late than never," can be truthfully used in connection with the twenty-six fall exhibitions of the Saanich Agricultural Society, which was opened yesterday. Everything was in favor of the fall fair in which every resident of Saanich peninsula seems to take a personal interest. The weather was fine, which induced many Victorians to take the long but pleasant drive from the city to the fair grounds, and also insured an unusually large attendance of the residents of the immediate vicinity and surrounding districts. Nobody was disappointed, in fact all were pleasantly surprised, as there was a marked improvement in every class of exhibits. The officers and members of the society saw that everybody was made to feel perfectly at home and enjoy the holidays, for such are exhibition days in Saanich to the fullest extent. The present officers of the society are: President, J. Sluggett; Vice-President, J. T. Harrison; Secretary, M. E. Holden; Treasurer, S. Sandover; Committee—W. Thompson, X. Marcotte, P. Franck, P. Imrie, G. Harrison, Fred Turgoose, M. Dean, J. W. Sluggett, J. John, W. Bassett and J. Cairn.

The judges were on the ground early yesterday morning and were busy all day awarding the prizes, which was far from being an easy task as the exhibits were numerous and hard to decide between. This was particularly the case with the horses, in which great interest was shown by all, there being no less than thirty-five entries in the roadster classes and eighteen in draught classes. The last few years have seen a wonderful improvement in the horses bred and raised in the district, while the increase in the population makes the competition very keen. A splendid example of the improvement was shown in the entries for the two prizes offered by H. D. Helmcken, M. P. P., for the best six horses bred and owned by one man in the district. Messrs. Thompson, Sluggett, Hagin and Turgoose competed for these prizes and each showed a string of horses that would have done credit to any farm in the country. Most of the 24 horses in the bunch were of the general purpose class, showing that the farmers are turning their attention to breeding stock that will be of the greatest assistance to them in cultivating their farms. All of the horses were paraded on the splendid track which the association laid out a few years ago, giving the judges and the public a good opportunity to decide on the merits of each competitor.

Among the cattle the Jerseys were undoubtedly the best, there being several bands of splendid looking animals. There was one fine band of Holsteins, several good Durhams and any number of graded cattle, which combined, made a very good exhibit in the cattle class.

A dozen pens of long and short wool sheep gave the judges any amount of trouble to decide upon those entitled to prizes, all of the competitors having traits entitling them to recognition. The same can be said of the swine, of which there were a large number, from the prize fat pig to the tiny suckling.

A temporary building had been erected for the poultry, and although the show in this line was not large it was well worth the attention of the visitors. It included chickens of several varieties, all of which would score high in a poultry show, a lot of fine geese and ducks. The pets were represented by rabbits, pigeons and bantams.

With all the fine exhibits in the yards, not half of the show has been seen until a careful survey has been made of the interior of the buildings, where benches, tables and floors are crowded with dairy, field and garden produce, and any amount of plain and fancy work, which of course, drew the attention of the ladies and earned any amount of praise. In amount and quality the grain was all that could be desired, many larger exhibitions having made a very much less creditable display. Every kind of vegetable was represented, the potatoes, carrots and turnips being particularly noticeable. Apples there were in abundance, all showing that the orchards of Saanich are in no way neglected. Several gentlemen exhibited grapes, the quality of which made up for the lack of abundance. The citrons and quinces were also very fine.

All of the flowers, and they were numerous, sweet-smelling and handsome, were shown by ladies, who had displayed very good taste in the arrangement of these exhibits, adding much to the appearance of the hall. Bread, cakes and preserves were also among the ladies' exhibits, while most of the butter was also due to the industry of the fairer sex. The butter needs more than passing mention, there being roll after roll and tub after tub, all looking just as near perfect as possible.

The B. C. Terra Cotta Company have an exhibit of the goods turned out by them. The Saanich Brick and Tile Co. also shows some drain pipe.

The exhibition was continued to-day, there being an even larger attendance than yesterday. This evening it will be wound up with a grand dance.

TO GUIDE ITS ACTIONS.

City Council at Work on a By-Law Governing Its Proceedings.

The city council held a special meeting last night to go into the by-law regulating its own proceedings. Mayor Teague and Ald. Harris, Baker and Styles were absent and Ald. Munn presided.

The tax sale by-law was reconsidered, adopted and finally passed.

James L. Raymur, city auditor and water commissioner, questioned the legality of the appointment of Mr. Northcott as both assessor and arbitrator in respect to the land to be expropriated for water works purposes.

It was decided on motion of Ald. Dwyer to have Mr. Raymur informed that Mr. Northcott will continue work on the estimates and the matter of the arbitrator be left for future consideration. It was further decided on motion of Ald. Humphrey that the mayor and finance committee act in instructing the water commissioner in the amount of land to be purchased.

The finance committee reported appropriating $33.25 out of the electric light fund. The report took the usual course.

Contractor Dinsdale, at work at the new electric light station, wrote suggesting that the dirt and rock being excavated be deposited as a fill in to make an extension of ten feet to the wharf below the site. It would make an extra $450. After some discussion it was decided to accept the offer of Mr. Dinsdale, Mayor Teague having previous to the meeting expressed the opinion that it was less than any other contractor could do the work for.

The council regulations amendment by-law was then introduced and Ald. Dwyer said that it was the primary object of every parliamentary body to have proper deliberation and orderly discussion on every question. The duties of every member and every committee should be defined by clear cut rules. The present by-law was incomplete and constant reference had to be made to the municipal act. If the council passed the by-law it was proposed to have it bound and indexed to make it handy for reference. The council went into committee of the whole on the by-law. The first 39 sections were passed, many of them without an amendment. When section 40, which deals with the manner of voting, was reached, there was a disagreement on some points and the committee rose. The council immediately adjourned.

THE CANADIAN MAGAZINE.

Canadians who look into the Canadian Magazine for October can hardly fail to esteem this publication well worthy of their patronage. J. M. Le Moine's "Reminiscences of Francis Parkman at Quebec" will commend itself to many who revere the name of the historian of youthful Canada. Attorney-General Longley of Nova Scotia, commences a series of articles on Joseph Howe, and the names of author and subject are sufficient guarantee of merit and interest. Hon. James Young gives a most suggestive illustrated contribution on Canadian Homes and Their Surroundings." W. A. Sherwood writes on "A National Spirit in Art;" Mary Temple Bayard on "Going Out of Town;" Hugh Sutherland, ex-M. P., on "Nature's Outlet for the Northwest;" J. C. Hamilton, M. A., LL. B., on "Indian Treaties in Ontario and Manitoba"—a paper full of interesting experiences—and Thomas E. Champion on "Curious Epitaphs." Two excellent illustrated articles, with the flavor of the unknown wilderness upon them, are T. W. Gibson's "Algonquin National Park," and A. H. D. Ross' "Canoe Trip to Lake Mistassini and James Bay." In "General" Bain of Sandy Beach," William Wilfrid Campbell shows his pathos and his sense of humor admirably combined. The poetry is of unusual merit; Mr. D. McCaig's "In the Shadow of the Church" being full of power, and J. L. Kenway's on "Queenston Heights" being remarkably spirited. The Canadian Magazine is published by the Ontario Publishing Co., Ltd., Toronto. $2.50 per annum.

NOT A DRUNKARD'S PARADISE.

Switzerland Visits the Offense With Heavy Punishment.

Renowned though Switzerland be for the freedom and democracy of its institutions, there is no country in the world that is so drastic and severe in its treatment of inebriates. The laws vary in detail in the 22 cantons, but in their essential principles they are very simple, and provide for the punishment of not only those persons who indulge in strong drink to excess, but also for the people who supply the liquor in question. Drunkards are visited with penalties amounting to a maximum of a year's imprisonment with hard labor and three years' interdiction from exercising the franchise and from the purchase of any alcoholic drink, while the dealers and innkeepers who permit their customers to become intoxicated or who furnish liquor to "interdicted" persons are likewise sentenced to the payment of heavy fines, imprisonment, and forfeiture of license. Altogether Switzerland can scarcely be considered a drunkard's paradise.

Chief Commissioner Martin Gave a Pledge to Oppose the British Pacific.

Premier Davie Also Takes a Hand in Dubbing the Scheme a Humbug.

Kamloops, Oct. 19.—The Colonist's report regarding Martin's election by acclamation and the cause leading thereto, is entirely erroneous and misleading. The facts are correct as given in the News-Advertiser. Messrs. Semlin and Sword, representatives of the opposition, were here, and a candidate was already in the field to oppose Martin's re-election. Further aid to the British Pacific scheme was the all absorbing question and was denounced on all sides by both opposition and honest government supporters. Several conferences were held between Messrs. Semlin, Sword and Mr. Martin's chief advisers. Later in the day a committee composed of Messrs. J. A. Mara, M. P., G. B. Martin, M. P. P., James McIntosh, R. Marpole, superintendent of the C. P. R. Pacific division, C. A. Semlin, M. P. P., and C. B. Sword, M. P. P., met at Mr. Marpole's residence, where after a short conference, Martin gave a formal pledge to oppose any further grants to the British Pacific "humbug"—the word he used in describing it. Messrs. Semlin, Sword and Marpole expressed themselves well satisfied with the result. Semlin immediately informed his friends that there would be no election. Premier Davie was here and he himself in speaking of the British Pacific scheme called it a "bugaboo" and "humbug." Mr. Marpole of the C. P. R., is said to have obtained a written pledge from Martin to send to Semlin on Sunday. He did not receive it and came to Kamloops on Monday.

NANAIMO NEWS.

Arrangements Being Completed for the Poultry Show.

Nanaimo, Oct. 19.—While discouraging news is brought to the city, of poor times in other mining towns, it is fortunate that matters are not so bad in Nanaimo. Operations in the coal mines could be better, but there is no reason to complain. The present month promises to be a big one and the New Vancouver Coal Company's pay roll will be large in consequence. There are quite a number of men out of employment and are looking anxiously forward to other parts of these mines being developed, so they may be taken on.

The sports of Victoria Crescent have arranged another match between John Mason and J. R. Wray, for a hundred yards dash. The stakes this time will be $30 a side and the side betting promises to be heavy. Mason gets five yards start.

The Nanaimo poultry show this year should be a greater success than last year, as many of the residents have raised birds for the exhibition. A meeting of subscribers is to be held on Saturday night for the purpose of making arrangements for the coming show.

The stomach of the late Mrs. R. Scott was forwarded to Victoria this morning for analysis, the brothers of the deceased having insisted upon this course and in consequence of the recommendation of the jury.

Mr. Barber, a talented choir leader, of a choral society in this city, and in view of this determination the best singers from the different church choirs will be asked to give their assistance. Mr. Barber is of the opinion that there is sufficient talent in the city to build up a choir of two hundred voices. At present he has an engagement at the Presbyterian church but this will not prevent him from carrying out his views.

BRIEF LOCALS.

Gleanings of City and Provincial News in a Condensed Form.

—Bailey, the Pachena Indian shot on the Indian reserve last Monday night during the assault on Sergeant Levin and Constable Redgrave, is doing very well in Jubilee Hospital.

—The steamer Islander, Captain John Irving, arrived from the north last night after a quick trip. She brought 12,000 cases of salmon from Rivers Inlet. The vessel had fair weather throughout the voyage.

—William B. Dunning, of the United States navy, who has been testing the Comox coal with a view of using it on the United States warships, returned to the city to-day. He will probably leave for the Sound this evening.

—Matthias T. Oreo, an old pioneer, aged 78 years, and a member of the French Benevolent Society, died yesterday at the Jubilee Hospital of senile decay. The funeral will take place tomorrow (Saturday), at three o'clock from Hayward's undertaking parlors.

—The provincial police are at work on a very sad case. A mere lad living with his parents at Sooke has been acting strangely of late and he has been taken in charge to have a proper examination made as to his sanity. It is quite likely that he will have to be sent to the asylum at Westminster.

—The programme printed in the Times yesterday was followed at the "musical evening" given last night at Institute hall by the choir of St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Cathedral. There was a good attendance and the performance passed off in a manner creditable to all who took part, and particularly to C. A. Lombard, who conducted the affair.

—Among the private bills to come up at this session of the house, are one to amend the City of Nanaimo official map act, one to exclude Harrison Hot Springs park from the municipality of Kent, another to extend the time for the commencement of operations under the Pacific Telephone and Cable Act of 1894 and another of a similar nature for the North Vancouver Electric Company's act.

A WOMAN'S PROBLEM.

Discovery That Had a Chilling Effect Upon Friendship.

New York World: She was my friend from our school girl days. She made the brightness of that time for me. She knew me and she loved me as she did no other woman. When I lay ill in the school infirmary she begged to be my nurse, and somehow, for she could always win her way, she gained her point. She was exposed to illness, perhaps to death, for my sake. For weeks she bore the fretfulness of a convalescent cheerily and severely subduing a natural impulse towards keen retorts I know.

I know all her past—I am the only one who does, for brave, proud spirit that she is, she would never let another dream of the misery of her home. I know how poor they were. I know how her mother saved and hoarded pennies to buy the clothes [illegible] clothed. I know that all her sensitive, young life she was afraid of the ringing of the door bell lest a creditor should appear. She is so fond of pretty things, my friend, and she has had so few. She is so like us all, vain and beauty-loving, and all her life she has gone clad in drab.

Now she is working and I am what I have always been, idle and useless. She is teaching, and never in the old school has there been a teacher so beloved as she, with her magnetic presence, her cheer, her bravery and her fine mind. She comes to me often and tells me of her pupils and the old school. We are together much. My friends are hers. She is, in a way, part of the gay world through me. We are so happy together. There has never been a cloud across the clear sky of our liking. We have seen each other's faults, and have desired that the time might hasten when they should be gone. That is all our imperfections meant to us.

We were to go to a box party together. I said to her:

"Harlette, I want you to wear a gown that shall be somber and black, and yet shining and golden. It will be like you, you bundle of contradictories! Have a yellow gown veiled in black chiffon, won't you?"

She laughed and told me that teaching was not the paying occupation that I seemed to think. Then her face clouded. She knew how beautiful she would look in that gown, with her soft masses of dusky hair and her shining hazel eyes with the golden light in them. She wanted to look beautiful, I know. She loves it now more than ever since even she can see now how John Richards regards her looks. My poor Harlette.

She was gloomy after that, and soon she went away. I did not go down from my room with her—she is so at home in our house. But before I heard the front door close I recalled something I wished to say to her. My feet were noiseless on the thick carpet. I leaned and looked, and my voice stuck in my throat.

In my silent, empty hall below, she stood, my friend, my Harlette. In her hand she held a purse. It was mine. She had found it lying there, where it had slipped from my muff, perhaps, I am so careless. She knew it. Had she not given it to me, with its soft brown kid and its filagree gold? How she must have saved to be able to buy it!

She hesitated. Her face was white and unhappy. Then—then she opened it and drew forth something. And then she closed it and laid it on a table and went forth.

The next night she wore above her black silk skirt a bodice of chiffon, with yellow roses nestling in the folds, and her round, fair arms were covered with her yellow gloves. She was beautiful, but her eyes did not linger on mine with the old-time love.

What shall I do? What is the miserable money to me? How gladly I would give much to her! Rather I blame myself. I might have done so much for her. But shall I go to her and tell her that I know, and that it matters not at all to me? Would that banish the doubtful look from her face and make her meet my gaze as frankly as before? Or would it—could it, bow her proud head and make her clear eyes falter ever more before mine? What shall I do?

SPRING MOTORS.

Some Inventors Claim It Is the Ideal Power.

Although cable trams, steam trams and electric trams have been introduced with more or less success—generally more as compared with horse work—there are still inventors who appear to have an idea that spring motors will beat the others out of the field eventually. An inventor who has taken out several previous patents for motors with coiled springs has recently patented in the United States a device to concentrate power from a number of springs and transfer it to a power shaft, the springs being wound singly or collectively while the shaft is still or while it is in motion. Any number of springs in suitable drums may be ground around the drive shaft by the revolution of which all the springs in the group may be simultaneously wound up, and any number of grouping of drive shafts and springs may be employed, each shaft being in communication with a common power shaft. Great economy of space is said to be obtained by the improvement, and the friction is reduced to a minimum.
